QuikTrip tripped up

Charlie's Restaurant purchaser runs into neighborhood zoning snag

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — June was not a good month in Granite City for QuikTrip Corp.

The Tulsa, Okla.-based convenience chain is seeking to build a store and gas station on the former site of Charlie's Restaurant on Nameoki Road, but a neighborhood dispute is delaying the process.

The Zoning Board of Appeals decided last night to continue the case until its July meeting in order to give the city Engineering Department time to study the issue of screening at the rear of the property. QuikTrip needs a variance to the minimum 20-foot setback from the property line in order to build on the site.

Earlier in the month, the city Plan Commission continued until July a second QuikTrip request for commercial zoning of residential property along the east side of Grand Avenue from Niedringhaus Avenue to East 22nd Street. The Plan Commission wanted a clearer idea of what development other than a convenience store QuikTrip planned for the property.

QuikTrip has purchase agreements with the owners of Charlie's and various properties along Grand, the latter block including Novotny Chevrolet.

At the board of appeals hearing a small, but hostile and often out-of-control group of neighbors objected strongly to locating a 24-hour convenience store on the Charlie's site. The neighbors voiced concerns about the hours, drainage, trash, traffic, lights, students crossing from the high school and harm to property values.

"These concerns deal with the C-5 (commercial) zoning," said David L. Antognoli, an attorney representing QuikTrip. "The property is zoned C-5. It is the property on each side of it are zoned C-5, the property across the street is zoned C-5. It is a commercial property and if it is not used, it will be somebody else."

IN MEMORIAL: The flags in front of the Pontoon Beach Police Station were flown at half-mast Wednesday in memory of Harry A. Briggs.

Nameoki supervisor dies

Harry A. Briggs Sr., supervisor of Nameoki Township for more than 23 years and one of the most influential Democratic political leaders of the area, died yesterday at the age of 68.

Briggs died at 4:15 a.m. in Anderson Hospital in Maryville from complications during surgery performed Tuesday. Friends said he had entered the hospital for removal of an arterial blockage in his right leg.

Briggs was supervisor of Nameoki Township from 1965-71 and again since 1981. Among his many leadership roles, he served on the Madison County Board of Supervisors, helped organize the Long Lake Volunteer Fire Department, served as secretary for the County and Township Officials of Illinois, and was a past president of the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission.

Briggs and his wife Pauline had four children, one of them Harry A. Briggs Jr., now the Madison County regional superintendent of schools. His brother, Gene Briggs, was the former regional superintendent.

Harry Sr. and Pauline were named Pontoon Beach's citizens of the year in 1980. Together they were involved in many ventures through the years, including a tavern, a country club and a pizza restaurant in Pontoon.

Briggs was a graduate of Granite City High School and a member of the Masonic Lodge 835, Scottish Rite Bodies and the Aired Temple.

Township Office Manager Dee

Stoyanoff worked with Briggs for many years.

"He was the greatest I know. He had a handle on everything," she said.

She said the office would be closed on Friday, the day of the funeral.

Trustee Del Whitsell also had fond words.

"We lost a great supervisor, he will be hard to replace," he said.

Clerk Lee Ridgeway worked with him for the last eight years and said the number of his contributions to the township were too many to mention. "He was a fine one. He had the interests of the township and he did a beautiful job."

On Wednesday, township officials were meeting with their attorney to determine how to proceed with the business of running the township.

Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles said legislation that took effect last year will leave the choice of Briggs' successor entirely up to the trustees. Because Briggs was just re-elected in April and had not yet served half his term, previous legislation would have called for a special election. But now, regardless of how much or how little of a term is served, trustees make the appointment.

"Basically they have to get together and appoint someone," Bowles said.

Chairman of the Madison County Board, Nelson Hagstover of Granite City, remembered Briggs for his involvement on the county board.

Harry A. Briggs
... age 68

"We were both elected to the county board (of supervisors) at the same time in 1955, I served with him for a number of years. I can recall him being the chairman of the legislative committee, spending a lot of time in Springfield."

Briggs was instrumental in getting sewers for the area. "He's the one that came up with the notion of putting the sewers in the three townships, Nameoki, Venice and Chouteau. It was his idea. He helped us get an $18 million grant from the EPA in the sixties," Hagstover said. "He was a personal friend and the family is a personal friend, my sympathy goes out to them."

An obituary appears on Page 8A of today's paper.

Homicide charged after hit-and-run

GRANITE CITY — A warrant charging reckless homicide has been issued against an East St. Louis woman in the hit-and-run death Monday night of a 16-year-old Granite City boy on Illinois 3 near Niedringhaus Avenue.

Elisa Smith, 30, was charged Wednesday evening in a warrant issued by the Madison County State's Attorney. She was arrested by Granite City Police shortly after the accident.

Bond was set at $75,000 by Chief Judge Charles Komani late yesterday afternoon, said Assistant Chief Ron Selph.

Darren Elliott of the 1700 block of Olive Street was pronounced dead at the scene by Deputy Coroner Barbara Werner. He had reportedly been

Police: Suspect in Hunt murder

EDWARDSVILLE — Granite City Police have a suspect in the murder of Sheila Hunt, an officer testified during a coroner's inquest yesterday.

"It is an ongoing investigation, and we do have a suspect," Det. Michael Gagich of the Granite City Police Department told Madison County Coroner Dallas M. Burke. "We don't have anyone in custody."

Because it is an ongoing investigation, Gagich said he could not comment further.

Hunt, 32, was found by firefighters in her burning home in the 2100 block of Bryan Ave.

during the early morning hours of April 29. An autopsy performed later that day attributed the cause of death to manual strangulation and multiple blunt trauma to the face and head.

Police said previously that the fire had been set deliberately, presumably to conceal the murder. Burke said that the autopsy showed Hunt was already dead at the time of the fire.

Burke read a report from Deputy Coroner Loren Davis which said that Hunt's nude body was found in a front room of her home between a bed and space heater. Her head was wrapped in a shirt and her face had been badly beaten. The report also said that Hunt's body was next to that of a large, black dog which was also dead.

During the inquest, a jury concurred with the conclusion of the autopsy and with police investigation by ruling the death a homicide.

The Major Case Squad of Greater St. Louis worked on the case for four days before returning it to local authorities May 4.

Granite man receives double-lung transplant

By Dennis R. Heinze
Staff writer

ST. LOUIS — Five Barnes Hospital patients celebrated a second birthday last week, expressing thanks to the unknown donor who gave up seven organs that let them have the "gift of life."

Paul Renner, 41, of Granite City received a double lung transplant.

He had suffered from emphysema, and for the last year he had to have a continuous oxygen supply from a tank, even when he slept. Now, he said, he's relieved that he doesn't have to carry the portable tank around any more.

Renner was also called into the hospital when he was at home last week. He called the whole experience "wonderful."

"It's something you know is coming, but it just surprises you," he said of the phone call. "You're ready for it, but you're not ready for it."

Renner will remain in the hospital for another week because he is still a little weak, but he's glad that the operation is over. Lung transplant patients on the waiting list all have a life expectancy of about one year.

All of the operations were performed on May 23 and May 24, and all but one of the recipients was able to leave the hospital last weekend. Barnes threw the party on Friday for the patients, their families and the hospital staff members who were involved with them.

Hospital officials said that a donation from one donor to five recipients was the first of its kind also was probably the first in St. Louis as well. Holleman said.

"This is really the ideal situation," said Dr. Larry Kaiser, who performs lung transplants. He said the use of seven organs from one donor is significant.

"It's the ideal use of donor organs."

Another of the recipients, Michael Odell of Ferguson, said, "I came into this hospital not knowing if I'd come out again." Odell received a heart transplant.

At one time after a recent heart attack, Odell was considered to have a 5 percent chance of living. Now he feels better than ever, but he's "not ready for dancing yet."

Odell, 50, suffered a second heart attack two months ago. For seven weeks he remained in a hospital bed while a "balloon pump" connected to his heart kept the organ beating. Doctors told him the only solution was a heart transplant.

"It was an exciting and thrilling moment for me," he said of the day they told him he would receive the heart. "I was happy that I was going to have another shot at life."

Odell is the hospital's 135th heart transplant patient since it began such operations in 1985.

Lack of donors means tragic organ shortage

When patients receive an organ transplant, they consider it their second birthday because they are given a second chance at life, according to Kathy Holleman, a spokeswoman for Barnes Hospital.

She said many transplant patients celebrate that day along with their real birthday.

"There is a tremendous shortage of organs," said Dr. Douglas Hanto, director of kidney, liver and pancreas transplants at Barnes.

Hanto explained that the hospital has a long list of people waiting for transplants.

"I think the major tragedy in medicine is that we don't have enough donors."

Hanto said that after an organ is removed, it has only a short time it can be preserved before it has to be transplanted.

The heart lasts 3-4 hours, the liver and pancreas about 24 hours, the kidneys about 48 hours and the lungs about 6 hours.

Barnes has performed 10 lung transplants since last July, more than 80 liver transplants since 1985 and more than 800 kidney transplants since the 1960s, Holleman said.

Anti-gay violence extensive

By Sabrina Eaton
Staff writer

WASHINGTON — Anti-gay violence continues to be a widespread problem in the United States, according to a 34-state study released June 7 by the National Gay & Lesbian Task Force.

Illinois reported 678 incidents, including 83 physical assaults and seven homicides.

The Illinois data came from groups in Chicago, Macomb and Urbana.

Missouri gay groups reported 14 incidents of homophobic vandalism, verbal harassment and threats, a low amount compared to states like North Carolina, which reported 982 incidents to the NGLTF.

But Kevin Berrill, director of the NGLTF's Anti-Violence Project and author of the report, said he got the state statistics from two groups in Kansas City and Columbia, and the low numbers showed only that many state groups were not keeping records of harassment, not that Missouri has fewer incidents.

"Local groups in St. Louis were not collecting statistics," said Berrill. He praised the city's recently passed hate-crimes bill as "one of the best in the country and extremely important."

The city law provides for increased penalties for bias crimes, counseling for victims, statistics collection, and development of educational programs based on those statistics. St. Louis County does not have a similar law.

St. Louis gay activist Jim Thomas, who publishes The Lesbian and Gay News-Telegraph, said St. Louis has roughly the same amount of anti-gay harassment as other Midwestern cities.

"You have your standard verbal harassment and people having objects thrown at them as they leave bars or organizational meetings," said Thomas. "We have a billboard, for instance, that advertises Pride Week in late June. It was just defaced with a swastika and offensive words."

An independent St. Louis gay group has begun to compile statistics on incidents, said Thomas, and the hate-crimes bill requires the police to keep records and pass them along to the city's civil rights enforcement group, which will develop educational programs to make people more sensitive to the perpetrator or police.

Thomas said many victims are afraid to report gay-related incidents, fearing they'll lose anonymity, or will be subjected to further harassment by the perpetrator or police.

"While there are many good policemen out there, there have been instances of insensitive police behavior in St. Louis," he said.

In presenting the study at a press conference in a U.S. Senate office building, the NGLTF expressed support for the Hate Crimes Statistics Act, sponsored by Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., and Rep. John Conyers Jr., D-Mich.

That bill would direct the U.S. attorney general to collect data on crimes motivated by prejudice based on race, religion, ethnicity or sexual orientation, and publish any findings.

"The Hate Crimes Statistics Act will not erase violence against the gay community," Simon said in a prepared statement. "But it is an essential step toward a solution."

Among the incidents of anti-gay violence reported to the NGLTF in 1988 were the following:

• On May 13, a lone assailant in Pennsylvania stalked and shot two lesbian hikers, killing one of them and critically wounding the other.

• On July 18 in Laguna Beach, Calif., pipe-wielding neo-Nazi "skinheads" screamed "Kill the faggot" beat a gay man unconscious.

• On Jan. 17, arsonists torched Womanspace, a Philadelphia community center serving lesbians and feminists.

• On April 30, vandals ransacked the home of a Nashville, Tenn., gay minister, scrawling "homo" and "fag" on his home and possessions.

Dixon views Army Reserve readiness

By Jason Moody
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Belleville, chairman of a U.S. Senate subcommittee that authorizes billions of dollars to sustain the reliability of the nation's armed forces, was in Granite City on Saturday for a lesson on how the money is put to use on a local level.

The top brass of the 102nd Army Reserve Command met with Dixon at the Charles Melvin Price Support Center for a briefing on the 6,070-soldier division. Stationed in southern Illinois and part of Missouri, it is designed to back up the U.S. armed forces in the event of a national emergency.

"I had a full review of everything they do, and I was quite impressed," said the Illinoisan, who chairs the Senate Armed Services subcommittee on Readiness, Sustainability and Support.

"In times of peace we tend to overlook the importance of what the Army Reserves do," said Dixon. "But in more stressful situations their presence can be vital."

Clyde Jones, military manager to the commanding general, said the 102nd did not hold the meeting to ask for any political favors or special attention.

"We just want to make everyone aware of our presence and of what we do," Jones said. "Nobody asked him to do anything for us."

The local Army Reserve officials intend to meet with every member of the Illinois and Missouri congressional delegations representing the 102nd Command area before the end of this year. Jones said the 102nd already has briefed Rep. Jerry Costello, D-Belleville, and will meet with Sen. Paul Simon, D-Makanda, in July.

In Illinois the command has units in Belleville, Scott Air Force Base, Wood River and Granite City. There are 1,175 full- and part-time reservists in the area, receiving a total of $3.4 million in annual income.

Most members of the 102nd Army Reserve are civilians who serve part-time and undergo intensive training sessions during weekends. However, there are 450 full-time reservists in the 82 units.

"There are a lot of reasons people join," said Jones. "There still are some flag-wavers out there, but education is the biggy."

"Few people do it for the money."

Bill by Wolf would restore state tax exemption for elderly, blind

Legislation that passed the Illinois House would restore a double exemption for senior citizens and the blind, according to a co-sponsor of the measure, State Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City.

"This bill will give back to the elderly and blind a tax exemption they had and deserved before the Tax Reform Act of 1986," Wolf said. "Qualified taxpayers will save $25 on their state income tax and qualified couples will save $50."

"House Bill 256 would allow qualified taxpayers to deduct an additional $1,000 off their total income," Wolf added.

"The Federal Tax Reform Act of 1986 eliminated the double exemptions for the elderly and blind. Because the Illinois income tax is based on the federal tax form, the exemption was also eliminated on state taxes," Wolf continued. "This legislation would restore the exemptions on the state level."

"I felt the blind and elderly were treated unfairly by the 1986 law and it's time now to correct the problem."

A similar measure passed the House last year but failed to get out of the Senate.

First Lady won't be at VP Fair, will be kept in touch anyway

First Lady Barbara Bush will not be able to attend this year's VP Fair as previously indicated, officials announced.

In a letter announcing the change in her schedule, Mrs. Bush's chief of staff, Susan Porter Rose, said, "As Mrs. Bush has twice in the past been pleased to be a part of the celebration, she is so sorry it will not be possible for her to attend."

Ron Henges, VP Fair general chairman, said, "I know Mrs.

Bush is disappointed that she will not be able to attend the Fair this year."

She and the President are both deeply committed to the advancement of education in this country, and this year's event will be a great tribute to that cause.

"We'll certainly be keeping in touch with Mrs. Bush and letting her know how the celebration went."

Psalm 100:2... "Serve the Lord with gladness: come before his presence with singing."

The most satisfying and fulfilling experience in one's life is that of serving God. The knowledge that we are doing something for Him fills a need within us that nothing else in the world can.

We were created by Him for His good pleasure. It is God's desire to have fellowship with us. He is most pleased when we are close to Him and certainly we are most happy when He is close to us.

One of the outstanding characteristics of a Christian is his joy. He is happy inside and it shows outside. He serves God with gladness.

Will you serve Him? Today.

Christian group holds meeting

The following article was submitted by Charles A. Meyer of Granite City, local spokesman for Christian scientists.

Unlike most religious denominations, when Christian Scientists gathered in Boston June 5 for their 94th Annual Meeting, it was not within a set structure of church delegates, committees and deliberations.

Much of the first church of Christ, Scientist, the meeting represented a coming together of church members from around the world with a singleness of purpose — to rededicate themselves to Christian healing.

Much of the two-hour annual meeting consisted of a series of interviews with church officials conducted by new Mother Church president, David E. Sleeper, of Dallas, Texas. He brings to the one-year appointment many years of service to the denomination including its ministry of Christian healing.

Also announced at the meeting was the appointment of two new lay readers for the Mother Church, to serve three-year terms starting this month. Horacio Omar Rivas of Boston is first reader and Marion Sheldon Pierkin of Des Moines, Iowa, will serve as second reader. Pierpoint reads from the Bible at the Sunday service and Rivas reads from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy. The two books constitute the "ordained pastor" of the church.

Highlights of the meeting included: • Recognition that the basis of world problems can largely be attributed to "spiritual illiteracy" and that to counteract this spiritual void, an understanding of God and the life and teachings of Christ Jesus is required.

• Discussion of Mary Baker Eddy, the founder of Christian Science, and the role her church plays in today's world.

• Consideration by members of the enormous public stirring over the question of Christian healing, and what this means in the face of current legal challenges.

• A look at why spiritual healing by members is so vital and how it touches the world.

• Completion of an extensive computerized concordance of the Bible as well as religious works on Christian Science.

• Report of increased public demand for science and health as a result of interest created by the church's worldwide short-wave programs.

•QuikTrip

Antognoli said QuikTrip is asking for a front setback of eight feet and a rear setback of six inches.

"The (restaurant) structure now on the property is in violation of both setbacks," Antognoli said. "Our survey shows the back is 1 1/2 feet across the rear line and there is set back only 2 feet in the front."

He said the front setback would be to the gasoline pumps and the rear to the rear wall of the store. The plan, he said, calls for 55 feet of space between the pumps and store; 10 feet for cars at the pumps; 25 feet for a driveway and 20 feet for parking spaces. When asked, Antognoli said QuikTrip is unwilling to vary the interior space to allow a one or two-foot rear setback.

Fourth Ward Aldermen Dan Partney and Dan Brown, in whose ward the property is located, presented the board of appeals with 200 signatures gathered by residents of the ward objecting to the development.

Partney and Brown told the board of appeals that, by ordinance, variances are to be given to properties whose development are in the best interests of the city. Development of this property, they argued, is not.

"They are asking for 31 1/2 feet of variance to a 40-foot setback," Brown said. "They're not asking for a variance, they're asking to throw setbacks out the window."

Dewey Melton, chairman of the board of appeals, said he understood and sympathized with the concerns of the neighbors, but that he didn't know, in good conscience, the board could deny QuikTrip's request.

"It is City property. What we are considering is just the setbacks. The building now there violates both setbacks," he said.

Over the box and catwalks of the crowd.

The setbacks asked for are an improvement over the current ones. Anything that goes in there might be a 24-hour operation with some of the same problems.

The board of aldermen is going to do whatever they want to do anyway. But I just don't see that we have been given a good reason for denying the variance.

As the board members got ready to vote, the crowd was at its feet objecting.

Then Mary Jo Akeman, secretary to the board and the Engineering Department, expressed concern that the engineers had not approved a plan for screening at the rear of the property.

If (QuikTrip) is not willing to move forward a foot and if screening can't be done without moving forward, it could be a problem, she said. "I wish the engineers were here to answer that."

The board quickly capitalized on her suggestion and continued the issue until next month.

Witnesses reported the car that struck Elliott made no attempt to stop after the accident.

•Transplant

The operation was performed on his 50th birthday, and he said he's gaining strength every day.

"I'm forever grateful for that unknown person" who donated the heart, he said. "That's what's so beautiful about this whole thing. He did it out of love, which is great. We need more of that in the world."

Gregory Cleriot, 48, of West County received the first whole pancreas transplant in the St. Louis area and he also received a kidney.

Cleriot, formerly of Baden, lost the use of his pancreas about 20 years ago. He suffered from diabetes and resulting kidney failure because of it. In August 1987, he began dialysis treatment, a blood cleaning process which does what the kidneys did.

The hospital wanted to try a double transplant of a kidney and pancreas, so he was placed at the top of the waiting list. When they contacted him, he was ecstatic.

"I was kind of in shock because I had been waiting for two years," he said. He added that he's a little sore but grateful. "I'd like to really thank that donor and his family. He did a great service."

Marilyn Essenberg, 54, of Ballwin received a liver transplant. She had suffered from Budd-Chiari syndrome, a rare liver disorder in which the veins are blocked from the liver to the heart.

She said she was very calm when they notified her about the available liver.

"The first thing that came into my mind was the donor family," she said. "I share their sorrow, and I hope they share my joy."

"I am in pure awe and gratitude because this family gave me this new life," Essenberg said. "This was a beautiful thing."

Charles Pringle, 36, of St. Louis received a kidney. He had suffered from a rare congenital syndrome and had been on dialysis since the first of the year.

"Right now I'm all excited, but I'm very cautious, too," he said. He said he's still weak and sore, but feels good.

Pringle explained that the hospital told him to have a bag packed at all times and to be ready for a call. The hospital also provided him with a beeper so it could find him at any time. He had been on the transplant list since September 1986 and the hospital contacted him at work.

"The first thing I did was take a deep breath," he said. "I was scared. You're kind of floating around on cloud 9."

"It was hard to believe, but I kind of realized it was final when they took my beeper away from me and put me in a room," he said. He was released a week ago, but he returned for the party. He said he considers the donation a "gift of life."

Before blowing out the candles on the birthday cake, the transplant patients thanked the hospital staff for its efforts and the donor family for agreeing to donate the organs.

"The nursing staff and the doctors are terrific," Pringle said. "I would just like to grab ahold of them and hug them all."

Romani chief judge

Circuit Judge Charles V. Roman, Jr. will take over as chief circuit judge for the 3rd Judicial Circuit July 1.

Romani, 42, of Glen Carbon, was elected to the position by the court's other circuit judges Monday afternoon at the Madison County courthouse in Edwardsville.

Every two years circuit judges vote on a new chief judge.

The vote was not revealed. Circuit Judge P.J. O'Neill has served as chief judge for the past two years.

"It's entirely different from being a trial judge," he said. "You spend very little time in the courtroom."

Romani said he was very honored to be elected to the post, but said he would miss being a trial judge.

A circuit judge since December, Romani had served as an associate judge since January 1983.

Riverboat gambling supported

by Dennis McMurray
staff writer

SPRINGFIELD — A proposal that would allow riverboat gambling along the Mississippi and Illinois rivers gained the support of Gov. James Thompson last week.

Thompson, who recently dropped his opposition to the bill, announced in Chicago that he is convinced Illinois "ought to adopt a form of riverboat gambling."

"If we do it, I'd like to beat Iowa by a year. They're not ready to go for at least a year and a half. I'd like to see Illinois let in there first."

Iowa Gov. Terry Branstad signed legislation in April that will allow riverboat gambling in Iowa starting in April 1991.

A bill that already has passed the Illinois Senate would allow riverboat gambling along the Mississippi River and the lower part of the Illinois River starting as soon as March of next year.

Although Alton officials so far have expressed opposition to hosting riverboat gambling because of concern about possible increases in crime, Grafton Mayor Gerald "Windy" Nairn said his community would consider it as a possible boost to tourism and economic development if it becomes law.

The governor also suggested riverboat gambling be considered on the Ohio River between Illinois and Kentucky.

The bill sponsored by Sen.

Denny Jacobs, D-East Moline, also would allow more to be wagered during cruises and per bet than under the Iowa law.

"I've talked to Sen. Jacobs, and I've come to the conclusion that this is something we should do for local communities who want it," the governor said.

Riverboat gambling legislation in Illinois should include "tight controls to make sure that we're down the tourism and economic development path and not just down the gambling path," Thompson said.

"I'm going to ask members of my administration to form a task force to work with Sen. Jacobs to see what ought to be in and what ought to be out. And obviously, we'll take local feeling into account."

Regional recycling plants planned

by Edward T. Hearn
staff writer

WASHINGTON — A business consortium pledged June 12 to spend $14 million to build five regional recycling plants as part of a nationwide attempt to halt disposal of plastic products used in school cafeterias and fast-food chains.

The announcement was made by Chicago-based Amoco Corp. and six other major plastics manufacturers which have joined in the formation of National Polystyrene Recycling Co. (NPRC), providing financial details of the venture for the first time.

Each company has committed to ante $2 million with the aim of having all five plants running by October 1990, said Ken Harman, an executive with Dow Chemical USA, a consortium member.

Plattitude plans include plant construction first in Massachusetts to serve a 10-state region, but the location of the other plants has yet to be decided, Harman said.

The goal is to recycle polystyrene products, which include fast-food trays and containers, foam cups, and plastic utensils. The process involves recycling the used product into clear pellets for later marketing.

An executive with Rubbermaid Commercial Products Inc. said the company would use the recycled material for the manufacture of hard plastic products such as children's toys, office equipment and videocassettes.

"These products use up to 90 percent recycled plastic and still meet or exceed the high quality standards we set for all our products," said Charles Lancelotti, Rubbermaid's materials and process technology manager.

Lee Thomas, former administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency and a project consultant to NPRC, said the goal of recycling 25 percent of all disposable polystyrene by 1995 was within reach and five years ahead of the EPA's own target date.

"Recycling has to be a major part of the solution," Thomas said. He said the number of U.S. debris landfills plunged from 18,000 in 1979 to 9,000 in 1985, with more than half of those remaining set to close in the next year.

NPRC, which plans to finance plant construction, wants the facilities to be operated by independent businesses, probably by companies that already are large consumers of polystyrene products.

NPRC hopes to keep the supply of post-consumer waste flowing to the plants by encouraging schools, hospitals and other large users to mark bins as receptacles for polystyrene products only.

Joining Amoco and Dow in the consortium were ARCO Chemical Co., Plink Oil & Chemical Co., Huntsman Chemical Co., Mobil Chemical Co. and Polysar Inc.

Are tax payers bearing an unfair burden?

To the editor:

The author is former commissioner of the Cook County Board of Property Tax Appeals, and director of the Chicago Department of Revenue. He is author of a leading book on the Illinois property tax system.

So far, 1989 has not been a very good year for Illinois taxpayers, especially those who live from paycheck to paycheck. The Illinois House has just passed Speaker Madigan's proposal for a $726 million cigarette tax increase and a whopping 46 percent hike in the state gasoline tax.

Meanwhile, local property taxes and utility taxes continue to grow at a back-breaking pace across the state. To be sure, the governments that levy these taxes have to provide important services like good schools, dependable roads, protection from crime, regular garbage pickups, and maintaining a safe and healthy environment. But Illinois must re-examine the way it pays for these essential programs.

By excessively taxing real estate, utility service, gasoline, liquor, and cigarettes to fund important public services, Illinois has quietly heaped an unfair tax burden on average persons in the past decade. Working families, senior citizens, consumers, poor people are hit hardest by current tax policy. These taxpayers spend most of their income on the very items that state and local government has decided to tax the most.

A recent study by the nationally-respected Citizens for Tax Justice has found that Illinois has one of the most unfair state and local tax structures in the country. Our state's excessive reliance on property taxes, sales and excise taxes, and utility taxes — all of which are not based on a person's ability to pay — has created a regressive system where the tax collector takes a bigger share of a family's income as its income declines. In short, the less you make, the worse you do when it comes to taxes in Illinois.

Not surprisingly, Illinois taxes on poor and moderate — income families have risen for several years in the 1980's. Indeed, Illinois' regressive tax system literally taxes many "working poor" families with "working into" further poverty.

Unfortunately, Illinois political leaders haven't paid any attention to the consequences of their inequitable tax policies. Instead of working to devise a fairer tax code, most officials and bureaucrats spend their time dreaming up exotic "tax incentive" programs. In the past ten years Illinois has created dozens of tax exemptions, abatements, and credits for special interests with the clout to get them.

In the final analysis, these tax breaks haven't created any new economic growth that wouldn't have happened anyway. All that loophole-mania has really accomplished in Illinois is the creation of gaping holes in the tax bases of school districts and municipalities across the state.

In the end, Illinois winds up hammering average taxpayers with higher taxes on vital consumer necessities like housing, utility service, and driving to work in order to subsidize the millions of dollars in "incentives" offered to companies like Sears, Roebuck, one of the most powerful and profitable corporations on the face of the earth.

Why should beleaguered Illinois taxpayers be forced to pay higher tax rates when so many public officials run their revenue departments and financial affairs like the Marx Brothers? The first principle of real tax reform in Illinois should be to make sure that government collects everything it should from its existing tax base. Adhering to this principle means that every tax loophole should be periodically analyzed and abolished when it is proven inefficient.

It also means using computers and modern management techniques to crack down on the scores of tax frauds and delinquencies who are not paying their fair share. Tax evasion is not a victimless crime. The real victim is the honest taxpayer who must make up the difference in high taxes or declining services, or both.

In recent days we've seen the spectacle of numerous Illinois public officials calling for the imposition of higher cigarette and gasoline taxes on consumers. Ironically, these officials hardly ever talk to each other when it comes to actually enforcing the current tax rates on these items. Gasoline tax and cigarette tax evasion — especially by organized crime — is rampant and costs Illinois taxpayers millions of dollars every year. But state and local governments are like two ships passing in the night when it comes to working together and devising a creative enforcement strategy to stop this sophisticated cheating.

Gov. Thompson's and Speaker Madigan's latest proposals to raise tax rates completely ignore the need for fundamental tax reform in our state. Their higher taxes would take millions of dollars of purchasing power out of Illinois, but leave the current unfair structure intact.

Illinois taxpayers should beware of politicians bearing quick-fix tax propositions that will make a bad system even worse. What our state really needs is a thorough overhaul of state and local revenue laws that will simplify the tax code, close down wasteful loopholes, provide incentives for better revenue administration, and help the people who need it the most — average taxpayers who live from paycheck to paycheck.

A tax reform package that would benefit average taxpayers should include the following:

- Reasonable property tax levy limits on local governments in exchange for any increased financial aid they receive from state government;
- Enactment of a state law requiring an annual listing of all tax loopholes, credits, credits and abatements;
- Blocking any increase in state or local excise taxes such as Thompson's proposed 6¢/gallon gas tax and 18¢/pack cigarette tax;

- Capping all municipal utility taxes by making taxes based on consumption rather than gross receipts taxes;
- Enactment of an Illinois Earned Income Tax Credit for working families and increased personal exemption amount for seniors and children in households with incomes under $20,000; and

- Passage of a state law requiring employees, contractors, and licensees of municipalities to complete sworn affidavits annually that they do not have any delinquent taxes or fees as a condition of their continued employment or license.

Thanks from frantic mom

To the editor:

Last Wednesday I took my two boys to the Wilson Park playground. My oldest son is 6, and my youngest is 2½. The park was very crowded. I took my eyes off my youngest son for just a second to see where my other son was, as I looked back, I no longer saw my little boy.

I began looking on the playground equipment for him and yelling his name. I asked every adult I could see if they had seen him. By now I had begun to panic and cry. I continued frantically to look for him.

Not one person offered to help me and there was at least 30 adults sitting around. It was the first time I can ever remember being in a large crowd of people and yet feel totally alone. Ten to 15 minutes passed, which seemed like a lifetime.

As I was running around looking, I heard a woman yell for me. As I turned to look, I saw she was holding my Andy. He had wandered to a picnic table with a group of kids that was quite a distance away. The lady hugged me and asked if I was going to be OK. I thank God she was at the park that day. She was the only one who cared enough to help. I didn't get your name, but thank you very much. No one will ever know how grateful I was. Thank you and God bless you.

Dark age vs. liberty's beacon

It's obvious, of course, that we should revere our Constitution and Bill of Rights, but perhaps it needs to be restated in the light of despotism in such countries as China and Iran.

This is the "land of the free" not just because we're a bunch of good people, but because of the words, beliefs and procedures written into our documents and our destiny by the founding fathers. They did a fabulous job, and their hard work is still making a vast difference more than two centuries later.

In the absence of such safeguards, tragedy and tyranny can dominate. There were many ways that Chinese leaders could have dealt with democracy-seeking students without recklessly slaughtering thousands this month, but without due process of law soldiers can murder and win praise from party chiefs.

Although the central government is claiming that it is only rounding up, beating, jailing and killing "counter-revolutionaries" and "hooligans," it is attacking many of its best and brightest citizens. And it not only is acting against persons it perceives as enemies, but also people picked at random.

Still another awful step backward is the decision to encourage people to inform on their neighbors or even fellow family members, relaying real or imagined conduct to authorities who then deal harshly with those singled out, reminiscent of the Nazi era.

Meanwhile there is hope, or at least wishful thinking, that new leaders in Iran will turn away from the savage repression of the past decade. But the 1979 takeover, supposedly intended to reverse previous governmental misdeeds, actually led to far greater cruelty and bloodshed.

Who can be depended on, if there is an absence of basic regard for individual rights?

Although United States courts can be frustrating and sometimes seem to delay or prevent justice, there is no valid comparison between our system and those of countries which require little or no evidence of wrongdoing and give citizens no opportunity to defend or explain their ideas and actions.

The rapid approach of July 4, Independence Day, underscores the importance of preserving our heritage of liberty and fairness. In too many areas of the world, its lack is creating a new Dark Age that sweeps away any respect for personal dignity and human life itself.

Steelworkers complaints heard

Our largest employer has some unhappy workers this week, miffed because negotiators were quick to approve a contract that has some shortfalls.

Many steelworkers at Granite City Steel are upset with their proposed contract, because of work scheduling, wage changes and temporary help hiring provisions. Some say that concessions given the company in previous contracts still haven't been fully returned.

Workers at the National Steel division here and at two other National Steel plants in the Midwest are voting on the contract, and those votes will be tabulated June 19 at the Pittsburgh corporate headquarters. Because workers at the other plants are likely to approve the contract by large margins, it is expected that the total vote will override any negative vote generated in Granite City. There are only 1,900 hourly workers here; National has 7,300 total in its three plants.

This issue definitely has two sides. On one hand is the company, eager to clean up a tedious labor issue prior to an August contract expiration. The company must balance that with the enormous cost of doing business in the face of continuously looming foreign competition. On the other hand is a work force that feels it has given 100 percent in the past and would like to see such returned to it in the future.

Outsiders will look at this and find it hard to feel sorry for the steelworkers, who have some of the highest paid jobs in this area. But insiders will tell you that unhappy employees also can be less productive. We would hate to see that materialize here, because Granite City Steel has been rated among the most productive steel plants in the nation for many years. Workers have long taken pride in that.

If the contract does pass, workers will, like everyone else, have to suck it up and live within their means. If they don't, there are some long, arduous negotiating sessions ahead. Either way, the company now knows how its employees feel, and both sides are going to have to realize they can't be successful without total support of the other.

Railroad-product plant resuming

Hundreds soon will be working again at American Steel Foundries in Granite City, and this week's re-opening of the mammoth plant is an occasion for genuine rejoicing.

When market conditions necessitated the closing of the plant in 1982, it was clear that Amsted Industries was not giving up on the Granite City facilities and staff. As many as possible were kept on the payroll, and care was taken not to let the equipment and buildings deteriorate.

As the years passed, some may have given up hope. But true to its word, the company resumed operations as soon as a sufficient need developed for its products, the "trucks" (side frames and bolsters) beneath railroad freight cars.

American Steel further upgraded the production line, workers agreed to greater flexibility in work rules, and utility officials revised rate structures. As a result, the plant is in a position to succeed against competition from anywhere in the world.

It is nearly seven years later, but a new and happy chapter is being written in American Steel's history — and the outlook is even brighter for future years.

Letters

Editor's note: The below letters were received by the Press-Record in response to recent articles and an editorial on both the Granite City Library's attempt to form a district and the reaction of Pontoon Beach.

Library explains district intent

To the editor:

In January 1989 the Granite City Public Library sent a non-binding letter of intent to the Illinois State Library expressing interest in a Project Plus grant.

The purpose of this grant is to pay for a demonstration of library service to areas without library service. In this specific case, the library was hoping to provide service to the entire (Granite City Community Unit District 9) school district.

This letter of intent was submitted even though some preparatory work was not complete. It was felt that this work could be accomplished before a formal, binding application was submitted in April.

In order to expand library service to the boundaries of the school district, a new unit of government, a library district, must be created. In other words, the current board would be replaced by an elected board from the entire area.

This meant the eventual disbanding of the present library board.

The decision to disband the current board was extremely difficult for its members. Some of these people have served faithfully for 20 years.

Most felt that they could not run for election and, consequently, a vote for a library district was a vote for their own retirement and saying goodbye to a part of their lives they loved.

Despite this painful choice, they did vote Yes to the Project Plus and to the library district. I don't know all their motivations, but they were influenced by the following:

1. A change in the Illinois Revised Statutes, chapter 81, paragraphs 4.7 (12), making bookmobile service to non-city-resident students at the elementary schools illegal. This is seen as a threat to a viable bookmobile service.

2. A growing number of students living outside the city. It is becoming increasingly uncomfortable for the staff and board to refuse library service to students.

3. A realization that the tax base needs to be expanded.

4. A preference at the state level for library districts and state encouragement to such districts to expand without regard to the needs of neighboring libraries.

The library board sees the Project Plus as an opportunity for the citizens of the area outside the city to:

• Experience library service without the hassle of non-resident fees, and

• As an opportunity for the voters to choose cooperation rather than conflict in an important public service.

Cooperation on this issue does not threaten political power bases. It may enhance them.

E. MARSHALL SCHROEDER
President,
Granite City Public Library
Board of Trustees

Low-key maybe, but not sinister

To the editor:

I both applaud and take exception to your editorial of May 25. The exception is due to one of your conclusions.

You refer to the Granite City Public Library's efforts to be low-key ("shunning publicity") about the Project Plus plans until the full extent of the proposal was known, and you state that our not seeking publicity was seen as "sinister" by Pontoon Beach representatives.

Yet at a meeting held at the Village Hall on Feb. 3, which was attended by the mayor of Pontoon Beach and Mrs. Glen Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Stan Lucas, Judy Merritt and Maureen Hayes, executive secretary of the Granite City Public Library, I was asked to "keep this quiet" until after the April election.

Therefore, I do not understand how my low-keyness" could be seen as sinister by them.

The purpose of the Feb. 3 meeting was to determine the willingness of the Pontoon Beach representatives to participate in the Project Plus. To summarize, they had three options:

1. Cooperating with the Project Plus,

2. Staying neutral and trusting the voters to decide;

3. Just saying no.

It was explained that to participate in the Project Plus would cost the village nothing, and the Project Plus proposal would culminate with the voters saying yes or no to library services.

No permanent expansion of library service would take place without voter approval.

To date, I have not received the courtesy of an official response, although Pontoon Beach's actions have given me my answer. However, it has been much easier for everyone if they had "just said no" in February.

Lastly, I am concerned about your use of the word "sinister." Yes, I try to be low-key and perhaps that was a mistake, however, the minutes of the library board meetings are sent to the Granite City mayor's office, the Chamber of Commerce and the Press-Record.

The Project Plus grant and library district are mentioned in the minutes. If there was a secret, it was a widely held secret.

'Rules' of revolution still same

The rules by which Communists play the game in China and the Soviet Union appear to be changing given the events of recent months, but don't kid yourself into thinking that democracy has a chance of quickly taking over. In fact, keep your eyes at home.

A couple of Granite City readers, Charles and Betty Sutton, recently passed along to me an article dug up from the dusty shelves of a closet. It merits further distribution; people will see the obvious local applications.

In 1919, the Bartlesville Examiner-Enterprise (city of origin unknown) published an article highlighting the "rules of revolution" used by Lenin and others in their overthrow of czarist Russia in 1917.

Rule A: Corrupt the young; get them away from religion. Get them interested in sex. Make them superficial; destroy their ruggedness.

Rule B: Get control of all means of publicity; thereby 1) Getting people's minds off their government by focusing their attention on athletics, sexy books and plays and other trivialities; 2) Dividing the people into hostile groups by constantly harping on controversial matters of no importance; 3) Destroying the people's faith in their natural leaders by holding the latter up to contempt and ridicule; 4) Always preaching true democracy, but seizing power as fast and as ruthlessly as possible; 5) Inciting unnecessary strikes in vital industries, encouraging civil disorders and fostering a soft attitude on the part of government toward such disorders.

Rule C: Cause the registration of all firearms on some pretext, with a view to confiscating them and leaving the population helpless.

There have been heard all this before? It is apparent that the attitudes troubling the world 70 years ago haven't left. The more things change, the more they stay the same.

The Bartlesville article, written with a flair for patriotism, ended with a piece of advice toward preserving freedom, here and abroad:

"Now is the time to act; tomorrow may be too late."

Readers react

What do you think about living in a 'polluted' area?

The Granite City area is rated by the Environmental Protection Agency as one of the worst areas in the nation in which to live based upon the number and type of air pollutants. Does it worry you to live here?

Ed Belling,
Granite City

"It's my choice. I try my best to help out by growing plants and trees."

Marilyn Ronney,
Granite City

"I was born and raised here, therefore it is my home. And I know pollution is part of the jobs here. I wish we could have completely clear air. If everyone does their part by planting trees it would help tremendously."

Ron Battles,
Granite City

"I really don't pay much attention to it, but I leave for the country every weekend for fresh air. I used to live next to the steel mill and the outside of my house was always dirty."

Bank introduces new CD

GRANITE CITY — Central Bank is introducing a new Certificate of Deposit called the Central Plaza CD, it was announced by Bart J. Solon, president and chief operating officer.

The Central Plaza CD is available at all Central Bank locations in celebration of the grand opening of the newly-remodeled and expanded Central Bank Nameoki Road facility. "The name 'Central Plaza CD' is in honor of the recently renamed Central Plaza (formerly American Village) where our bank is the lead retail property," Solon said.

The Central Plaza CD is a one-year certificate of deposit paying a bonus interest of 10.25 percent for the first 90 days; the CD then pays a guaranteed fixed rate of 8.25 percent for the remaining nine months. Minimum deposit is $1,000 and interest is compounded quarterly. The Central Plaza CD will be offered at all Central Banks for six weeks, through July 15, 1989.

Chomko to assist department

GRANITE CITY — Marsha Chomko will be assisting the Pastoral Care Department at St. Elizabeth Medical Center this summer through a field education program sponsored by St. Louis University.

"This is a part of my educational process, in obtaining a corporate ministry certificate," Chomko said. "It will let me explore different aspects of ministry."

Chomko is the director of religious education for the St. Elizabeth Church parish and lives in Granite City with her husband, Jim, and sons, Jimmy and Carl.

"I would like everyone at SEMC to know that I am available if they need me," she said. "I hope to meet as many as I can while I am here."

Parks, who has a bachelor of science degree in biology from the University of Missouri at Columbia, is currently working on his master of arts degree in business and hospital administration.

"I've been impressed by the medical center. It seems like everything moves smoothly and the administration is attuned to the needs of the organization," Parks said.

The residency will allow Parks to observe how SEMC's administrative level functions.

Parks has been in the St. Louis area for three years. He is originally from Lewis, Mo.

This was the second consecutive SST award for Lindsay. L.E. Lindsay is a member of the Southern Illinois Builders Association, a chapter of the AGC.

SEMC adopts new mission statement

St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Granite City, has adopted a new mission statement that includes recommendations made by members of the management and administrative teams, the board of directors and the Sisters of Divine Providence stationed at the medical center.

Revisions were necessary in order to keep up with the many changes occurring in the health care field, said Sr. Mary Thomas, C.D.P., chairman of the board.

"We must continue to look at our mission and see that we are meeting the needs of the times," she said.

"Our mission statement really reflects on what we are all about, and as we study and revise it, it sensitizes us to make sure that what we are doing fulfills the purpose of our institution."

The revised mission statement gained approval from the Sisters' Provincial Council and now reads as follows:

"At St. Elizabeth Medical Center, the Sisters of Divine Providence and all associated with us share in Jesus' mission. In Him, we are a present to the world as we bear witness in our health care ministry to God's Providential care."

"Reverence for the human person permeates our relationship with those with whom we work and especially with our patients as we attend to their health care needs with the resources we have available."

"In reaffirmation of our long-term commitment to our community, we will concentrate on the development of comprehensive services in meeting present and future health care needs."

The philosophy of the medical center remained relatively unchanged. It consists of seven points:

1. We are unique because we are made in the image and likeness of God. Therefore, our concept of total care embraces the physical, emotional, social and spiritual needs of each patient and family member.

2. Our mission is an extension of Christ's mission of mercy. We carry on that mission by serving all regardless of race, creed or ability to pay.

3. Our primary objective involves the maintenance, enhancement and restoration of health as well as the care of the terminally ill. We recognize the patient's right to refuse treatment to the extent permitted by law and to be informed of the medical consequences of his/her action.

4. We have an obligation to provide quality care to our patient population through the best available resources. This includes selection of qualified, competent physicians, associates and volunteers.

5. Our physicians, associates and volunteers will treat every one with respect and dignity. All patients have a right to expect maximum confidentiality; therefore, case discussion, consultation, examination and treatment are confidential and will be conducted discreetly.

6. We will encourage, evaluate and support innovative ideas and programs in health services delivery.

7. Our medical center is a community facility planning and operating in accord with the needs of those we serve.

Cards for Father's Day honor Dad with a laugh

About a third of the 90 million Father's Day cards expected to be given on June 18 will be humorous.

A new kind of humor for Father's Day reflects a new kind of dad, according to Don Tschannen of Jan's Hallmark Shop in Granite City.

Men are giving more time and emotional energy to family relationships, and this year's cards show fathers in that nurturing role as more mothers join the workforce, Tschannen says.

While offspring may take Dad's nurturing seriously, they often like to joke about it on Father's Day.

"One card, for example, says, 'Thanks, Dad, for giving me direction in life...Upstairs to your room! Now!'"

Another uses humor to depict Dad's emotional involvement with his children: "Dad, I'll never forget all the screaming, the pouting, the tantrums when I was growing up. Looks like you pretty much grew out of it."

Even new fathers are finding themselves in a more nurturing role, and humor is a popular way to recognize that fact: "Don't worry about being a new father. You'll rise to the occasion...About a dozen times a night."

As Hallmark card writers track what Americans want to say to their fathers, they find wit a favorite way to let Dad know how wonderful he is: "Dad, when they made you, they broke the mold. And you fixed it! Only now it won't close right and it sort of veers off to the left."

Even Mom lovingly gets into the funny act on Dad's special day.

One card says, "When people ask me 'How does it feel to be married to a kind, generous person?' I always say 'the same thing.' 'Ask my husband.'"

Fathers have been fair game for humor for more than 50 years, Tschannen says. Some early Hallmark cards addressed "Old Man" and "Poor Father," and poked fun at Dad in his easy chair, behind the newspaper, bungling fix-it projects and being a bit of a klutz when it comes to handling babies or taking charge in the kitchen.

But it was a nurturing, non-traditional father in whose honor Father's Day was begun.

William Jackson Smart, a widowed Civil War veteran and single father of six, would probably chuckle if he could see some of today's cards.

Truckers honor Sen. Sam

State Sen. Sam M. Vadala-bene, D-Edwardsville, was presented with a testimonial award by the Mid-West Truckers Association Inc.

The association cited Vadala-bene for his service to the improvement of the Mid-West Truckers Association Inc. and the trucking industry.

Merfitt Cagwin, president of the organization, said Vadala-bene's support of issues affecting the trucking industry merited the award.

"Sen. Vadala-bene has been an asset to the trucking industry in Illinois and is most deserving of this award," he added.

Vadala-bene represents the 56th District, which includes virtually all of Madison County.

Where the bucks stop

By Andy Stiering
Staff writer

ST. LOUIS — So near, but yet so far. Look, but don't touch. You're being watched.

Those, in rapid succession, are the thoughts that cross your mind as you stand before a glass window inside the granite fortress at 411 Locust St. that is the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis. On the other side of thick plate glass, two workers count stacks of bills.

There's over a million bucks sitting there, stacked in bundles of 10 packets, each of which contains 100 bills.

You could just fit a bundle of 1,000 $100-bills into each of your jacket pockets — assuming you could get close enough to grab it. That's a cool $200,000 you'd be walking around with.

But you couldn't walk far. Closed-circuit cameras scan the counting rooms and hallways of the bank. Guards with guns and electronic control of the doors in and out of the bank watch those cameras 24 hours a day.

Not only has the bank never been robbed, says a tour guide, robbery has never even been attempted.

About 2,000 students take a similar tour every year. The occasion for this particular tour, conducted several weeks ago for the benefit of the media, was the 75th anniversary of the St. Louis Fed, which came into existence on May 18, 1914. Before the tour, a brief ceremony was held in the marble lobby of the bank.

The act establishing the Federal Reserve System was signed by President Woodrow Wilson in 1913, and St. Louis was chosen as the headquarters of the Eighth Federal Reserve District the following year. The district has branches in Little Rock, Ark., Louisville, Ky., and Memphis, Tenn. It serves all of Arkansas, most of Missouri, southern Illinois and Indiana, western Kentucky and Tennessee, and northern Mississippi.

The "St. Louis Fed," as its employees call it, had six officers and 17 employees when it opened in rented quarters in 1914. Today it has 1,300, about 900 of whom work at the main branch.

There are 12 federal reserve districts. Missouri is the only state with two district headquarters. Kansas City is the headquarters of the Tenth JACK KEANE, special assistant to St. Louis Mayor Vincent C. Schoemehl, presents a mayoral proclamation on the 75th anniversary of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis at a ceremony in the bank's lobby.

Federal Reserve District. According to James Neal Primm, professor emeritus of history at the University of Missouri at St. Louis, Missouri's getting two of the Fed district headquarters caused "cries of outrage" in about 25 other cities that had been considered and rejected by the federal commission that selected the sites.

Both cities were selected in part because they were power centers in national Democratic politics, Primm said. Curiously (or perhaps not curiously), most, if not all, of the influential guests at the May 18 ceremony were Republican bankers and business leaders.

This circumstance did not escape the attention of Jack Keane, special assistant to St. Louis Mayor Vincent C. Schoemehl, who was there to present a mayoral proclamation marking the anniversary.

"There are some big money men here," the Democratic Keane murmured to a reporter. "All Republicans, too."

Keane got a laugh later when he repeated the remark to the small gathering.

*****

The tour led past the central guard room on the first floor. Keane, accompanied by a guard, who we were told was present to prevent the taking of pictures in sensitive security areas.

The central guard room was one of those, we were informed it had bulletproof glass and armored walls — similar to what you'd find in a nuclear power plant control room.

Access to the various departments is controlled by means of electronically coded security cards. Bank employees have access to departments only where they have legitimate regular business.

The tour took us past the vault, which we were informed was actually a separate building around which the rest of the one-block square bank was built. A 45-ton and a 35-ton steel door guard it front and back.

The guides said they were not at all sure how much money is generally in the bank at one time.

The bank's hallways are a confusing maze, carpeted and painted in charcoal gray and subdued green. Cameras track your every move through the maze.

The check-processing department is in an annex that years ago was Nugent's Department Store; here there are three 20-foot-long sorters that process 2,000 checks a minute, two million checks a day. Electronically sorted checks blur into 23 slots for shipping to the proper reserve district, where they are routed to the bank on which they were drawn. Settlement is accomplished by entries to the margin accounts that member institutions must maintain with the Reserve Banks.

We are informed that checks will one day be obsolete, to be replaced by something called a "debit card." Say you go to the supermarket. At the checkout you will present the clerk with your card; the amount of your purchase will instantaneously be withdrawn from your account and credited to the account of the store.

Another department handles securities. Yet another houses staff analysts who crunch the raw numbers on which the Fed makes decisions about whether to increase or shrink the supply of money. This directly determines the rate of inflation, how much credit is available and at what rate of interest.

In still another department, a big, high-speed machine sorts used currency, simultaneously checking for counterfeit bills and damaged or worn ones. The latter it shreds; the resulting currency coleslaw is sucked up transparent pneumatic tubes. It is later buried at a local landfill.

The sorting machine spots two to four counterfeit bills daily. We are told that the most popular bill for counterfeiters is the $20. The average life expectancy of a dollar bill is 15 to 18 months; larger denominations last longer because they are not in circulation as much. The St. Louis Fed destroys about $160 million in worn-out currency daily.

And you thought you could go through money.

How the Fed works ...

The Federal Reserve System is a little-understood institution, but its workings affect everyone, everywhere. When the Fed twitches, the movement is felt worldwide.

The Fed has four basic functions: •Regulating and supervising financial institutions. Six thousand of the 15,000 commercial banks in the U.S. belong to the system. National banks must be members; state-chartered banks may join if they meet certain requirements. Each member bank is required to hold 3 percent of its capital as stock in its district Fed, and the Fed can require 6 percent.

The member banks' dividends on their deposits are fixed by law at 6 percent of their invested capital. Any profit the Fed makes goes to the U.S. Treasury. In 1987, for example, the Fed made a profit of about $18 billion, of which $17.8 billion went to Treasury.

About 31,000 other depository institutions, such as savings and loans and credit unions, are subject to Fed regulations, including reserve requirements.

•Serving as banker and fiscal agent for the government: A team from the St. Louis Fed recently designed a system for collecting corporate and withholding taxes for the Treasury Department. The system has been adopted by 10 of the other 11 district Feds.

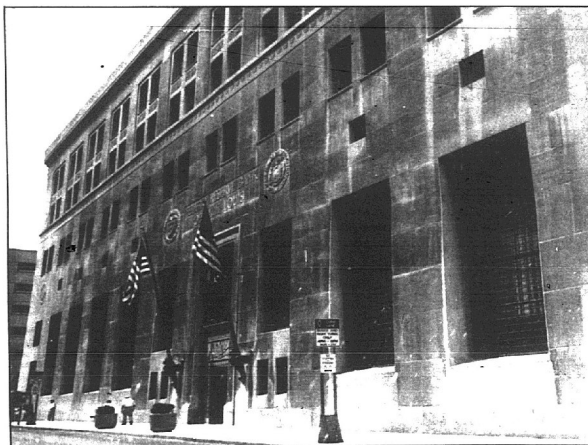

•Supplying payments services such as check and wire transfers to the public through depository institutions.

•Influencing the supply of money and credit. This is the most visible and crucial part of the Fed's job. It does this in two ways: through the "discount rate" and the "federal funds rate."

The discount rate is the rate of interest the Fed charges depository institutions that need money. A high rate tends to discourage borrowing; a low rate encourages it.

When the Fed raises the discount rate, as it did last August, stock prices fall, interest rates rise, and the dollar increases in value relative to other currencies. This is one way the Fed controls inflation.

The other way is through its main policy-making body — the Federal Open Market Committee, made up of the seven-member Board of Governors and presidents of five of the 12 district Feds. The committee meets eight times a year to decide whether to tighten or loosen credit. The committee's favorite tactic is to manipulate the total level of reserves held by banks, S & L's and credit unions. Cash-rich banks often lend money to other banks on an overnight basis. That overnight rate is the federal funds rate.

The Fed affects that rate by buying or selling large amounts of U.S. government securities. If it sells, the rate goes up; if it buys, the rate falls.

The Fed has one more weapon to control the economy, a weapon it seldom uses because doing so is administratively awkward. It can raise or lower the amount of cash that deposit-taking institutions must hold in reserve in their vaults or at a regional Fed.

Changes in the discount rate or the federal funds rate are reflected quickly in the prime rate (the rate favored customers pay for loans), in Treasury-bill rates and car loan rates, and in indexes that govern adjustable-rate mortgages and home-equity loans.

University nearing 25th anniversary at area campus

Success has many authors, but the three names that stand out in my memory regarding establishment of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville are George F. Wilkins Sr., Lloyd George F. Harris and Paul Powell. The big Madison County university opened its doors at the main campus in the fall of 1965 and I would guess it plans a suitable observance of the first 25 years during 1990.

The latest group of 2,200 graduates participated in commencement exercises Saturday, June 10. SIU services here started in the late 1940s, but the first class on the SIUE campus was conducted Sept. 23, 1965.

*****

ITS CREATION was a classic example of individual rights vs. the common good.

We were fortunate that the 2,600-acre site was largely undeveloped, but a number of families had built comfortable homes in wooded, hilly areas between Edwardsville and Granite City.

Most of the families did not want to move, but it was determined to be in the public interest to allow SIU of Carbondale to extend its education, research and service programs to south-western Illinois.

All necessary approvals were obtained, the state government provided the initial $25 million to construct a nucleus of buildings, and one of America's most attractive universities became a reality.

*****

MANY METRO EAST residents, including Granite Citizens, contributed financially to help the state purchase the property. Too few Madison and St. Clair counties high school graduates were continuing their educations, due to the absence of affordable, conveniently located institutions of higher learning.

SIUE provided a remedy and few people now question the wisdom of constructing it. It was conceived as a commuter school, although some student housing later was provided at Tower Lake.

It initially gave approximately equal emphasis to all four years of instruction but has since coordinated its course offerings with those of community colleges as the latter proliferated.

Winter wonderland

By Bill Winter

STATE REPRESENTATIVE Harris, a Granite City Democrat, sought state appropriations for SIUE, working with such leaders as House Speaker/Secretary of State Powell and State Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilkins.

Wilkins was a former Madison County superintendent of schools as well as Madison County superintendent of schools. He later resided in Granite City. All three are deceased. They probably would cite others who also were instrumental, but they came to mind along with the late Delyte Morris. He had been the driving force behind the dramatic growth of SIUC, and he applied some of those same skills in assuring that SIUE would become large enough to develop a full curriculum. Today it is in the leading ranks of universities, conferring degrees on doctors, dentists, lawyers and a wide range of other professionals.

*****

THIS NEWSPAPER was among those who thought it ought to be called Southwestern Illinois University. For several years, Press-Record headlines and stories referred to SIUW. A compromise then was reached and we started calling it SIU-SW.

One of the first decisions I made when I was promoted to editor was to designate it as SIUE in our news columns. The university favored Edwardsville rather than Southwestern as its geographic description. The campus newspaper, Aletheia, was an acronym that called attention to the Alton and East St. Louis centers as well as the Edwardsville campus.

The name issue stemmed from differences of opinion over whether it ought to be a free-standing university or, as some feared, a "stepchild of Carbondale."

In retrospect, although SIUC still gets a bigger budget than SIUE, the local university has fared well. And the combining of the two endeavors, offering medical instruction in Springfield, probably resulted in added clout with Illinois legislators.

*****

THE MOST FASCINATING individual associated with SIUE, at least to newspaper people in this region, probably was the late John Rendleman.

While serving as SIUE president, he maintained frequent conversations with the news media, and not only answered questions about the school but proved to be a great yarn-spinner (all of them true).

His most intriguing story dealt with the sudden death of Paul Powell, his close friend. It was Rendleman who discovered shoe boxes crammed with $800,000 in Powell's hotel room closet.

As the university official prepared to report his find to authorities, he put the cash in the trunk of his automobile. A short time later, the vehicle was stolen. This resulted in a sinking feeling for Rendleman, who was innocent but feared he might be accused of wrongdoing.

*****

IT ENDED HAPPILY when authorities located the abandoned car. The thief had not looked into the trunk, and the money was recovered. Why Powell didn't trust banks, I don't know.

In conclusion, I'll mention the uplifting feeling when approaching the campus core by road from the east, particularly in the morning. When you rounded the bend and the cluster of initial buildings appeared, it created the most beautiful view imaginable.

Some U.S. architects plan campuses that wind up looking somewhat like the campus at SIUE chose well in selecting its designers.

In heat of electric jump, IP offers some cool tips

The summer cooling season has arrived, and the monthly bill from Illinois Power will increase — as it usually does at this time of the year — due to the differential between winter and summer rates.

The utility emphasizes, however, that a number of common-sense conservation measures can help give customers control over their monthly electric costs.

The four-month summer billing period employs a new electric rate of 9.17 cents per kilowatt-hour, established in the March 30 rate order from the Illinois Commerce Commission.

Although that rate is a slight decrease from the 1988 summer rate, the overall cost to ratepayers will increase by about one cent per kilowatt-hour because customers will not benefit from a credit applied to bills last summer, an IP official said.

The first summer bill, on meters read after June 15, could reflect a significant increase, chiefly because summer rates are substantially higher than the winter rate of 5.9 cents per kilowatt-hour.

For the "typical" residential customer using 1,000 kilowatt-hours the increase in the first summer month could run $30 higher than the bill for the preceding month, which was billed at the lower winter rate.

The average summer-rate monthly bill will be $8 to $10 higher than the comparable monthly bill in 1988.

"The summer rate is up only a penny," said James E. Swift, manager of service area operation, "but those pennies really add up. The good news is that customers can control their bills by making smart decisions on energy use."

The most obvious area for customer attention is air conditioning, which accounts for 30 percent of the typical residential electric usage each year.

More than 60 percent of the summer monthly bill can be attributed to cooling costs. Adjusting the thermostat to 78 degrees and above, with higher readings while the home is empty, can produce energy savings of 15 percent and more.

Careful maintenance of cooling equipment and appliances is essential.

The use of draperies and fans, and proper placement of awnings and trees will result in lower power bills.

Customers can also minimize heat build-up in homes by postponing cooking, bathing and laundering until cooler hours.

An Illinois Power home energy audit costs $15. The audit will pinpoint problem areas which can be corrected by the homeowner.

Customers may also choose the Budget Billing program, to even out seasonal bills.

Summer Cooling Tips
Get the most cool comfort for your energy dollar by taking advantage of these simple suggestions:

• Follow the sun. As the sun moves from east to west during the day, pull drapes and shades on windows to block out heat.

• Keep windows and doors closed when your air conditioner is working.

• Don't let the cool escape! Caulk, weatherstrip and insulate (especially your attic) to close air gaps.

• Check and clean the filter on your air conditioner every 30 days during the cooling season. Have the coolant, fan belt, and coils checked during an annual service exam. Keep outside tower free of leaves and keep shrubs cut back.

• Use timers and set-back thermostats on air-conditioners.

• Adjust the thermostat at the highest comfort level — 78 degrees is the recommended daytime setting. Each degree above that means 3 percent more energy consumption.

• Use fans window, ceiling or attic fans when air-conditioning is not absolutely necessary. Open the windows.

• Use the shade from properly planted trees, vines and shrubs.

• Plan ahead. Do your "hot" jobs such as washing and drying clothes or baking and cooking in the cooler hours of the morning or evening.

• Consider Budget Billing to equalize monthly electric bills.

• Get an Energy Audit. A $15 investment with Illinois Power could reveal problems that cost hundreds of dollars.

Youngster needs loving home

Following is another article from the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services, illustrating the need for foster homes in this area.

If Kendall doesn't turn his head when you call him, it's because he doesn't hear you. And if he seems to be off in a world of his own, it's because he is. Poor hearing makes it difficult for this boy to be a part of any group.

Kendall is 6 years old. His parents are divorced. His mother finds it hard to care for him and control him. Since his mother is not home very often, it seemed best to place Kendall in a child care facility until a suitable foster family could be found. He has two brothers still living with his mother.

Considering his handicap, Kendall does very well at school. Once he understands what he is supposed to do, his concentration is good. The boy has brown curly hair, large hazel eyes and is small for his age.

Usually, Kendall is in good spirits. Although he doesn't know many games, he likes to be active. He knows how to make his wants known. Kendall needs to learn to trust adults so he will look them in the eye. Right now, it is difficult for him to do this.

Kendall needs foster parents who will shower him with love and patience. He also needs the security of a family home and the encouragement of adults who care so he can overcome his shyness.

The Department of Children and Family Services provides a monthly board payment to help foster parents meet the expenses of caring for a youngster. Medical, dental and other special expenses are also paid by the state.

If you are interested in a boy like Kendall, or in foster care in general, call Jeanette Rettle, Resource Development Specialist at (618) 476-8988 or the toll-free number at 1-800-624-KIDS.

Seniors' road rules course Wednesday

Secretary of State Jim Edgar, in cooperation with Granite City Council of Senior Citizens, is offering a Rules of the Road Course on June 21 for all citizens in the Granite City area.

The purpose of the course is to help applicants pass the Illinois drivers license renewal examination. It updates drivers on current rules of the road, explains the vision and the driving ability examinations, and prepares applicants for the general written and road sign examination.

The Rules of the Road Review Course will be held at the Granite City Township Building, 2000 Delmar Ave., on Wednesday, June 21, from 9 to 11 a.m.

The course is free to everyone, any age, who wishes to attend. For more information, Clyde Myers can be called at 476-3581.

Again, no advance notice on tax

The Illinois House has overwhelmingly rejected a six-cent increase in the state gasoline tax sponsored by House Speaker Michael Madigan.

It was the second time in as many weeks that Madigan proposed a statewide tax increase. The previous week, House Democrats rammed through a Madigan-sponsored 14.4 percent two-year increase in the state income tax with no Republican votes but 60 Democratic votes.

State Rep. Ron Stephens, D-Troy, said the gas tax proposal, which Madigan presented without any advance notice, would have provided $2.1 billion for highways over the next five years. Three-quarters of the money would be used to repair and maintain existing roads.

Stephens said the proposed tax increase was a political maneuver designed by Madigan to blunt criticism of his income tax hike and offer House Democrats a chance to vote against a statewide tax increase.

The plan received only seven "aye" votes, all cast by Democrats. Madigan, D-Chicago, voted "present" on the measure. Many House Republicans questioned the need to raise the gas tax when funding for education and human services remains unresolved.

In other action, House members approved numerous measures, including:

Minimum Wage (House Bill 494) — Raises the state's minimum wage to $4.55 an hour by 1991. The minimum, now $3.35 an hour, would increase to $3.85 an hour in October, to $4.05 in April 1990 and to $4.35 in 1991. Like the federal legislation it is modeled after, the bill allows employers to pay 50 cents an hour less than minimum wage to beginning workers under age 18.

Recycling Batteries (House Bill 2020) — Requires sellers of lead-acid batteries to accept used batteries for recycling; requires retailers to charge a $5 fee on the sale of new batteries if a used battery is not traded in, or provide a $5 recycling credit on the sale of new batteries if a used battery has been returned for recycling.

No Smoking (House Bill 120) — Defines any public and work area as a non-smoking area. Employers would have the option, but would not be required, to set up smoking areas. Violators discovered by police officers would pay a $50 fine.

Employers would bear the cost of creating signs, should they decide to designate smoking areas, and the size of the smoking areas would be left up to individual businesses. The bill does not pre-empt local ordinances already in place to regulate smoking if they are more restrictive. Bars, banquet halls and hotel rooms would be among places exempt from the legislation.

Solid Waste Management Plans (House Bill 1175) — Requires smaller counties in the state to develop solid waste management plans by March 1, 1990. Last year, lawmakers passed legislation that required the state's counties with populations of 100,000 or more to develop waste management plans. This bill would expand that law to include the rest of the state's counties.

School Funding (House Bill 515) — Designates that schools get 26.6 percent of the state's general funds each year. The measure would provide K-12 schools nearly $266 million more in the budget year starting July 1 than they received for the current fiscal year.

College-Savings Programs (House Bill 2607) — Authorizes the Illinois State Scholarship Commission to develop and provide college savings programs to permit long-term savings for higher education costs and to market and promote college savings programs to the public.

College-Savings Bonds (House Bill 2803) — Requires that at least half of the total amount of any college savings bonds sold after Jan. 1 be in denominations of $1,000 instead of the $5,000 face value offered previously. This change would help make these bonds more affordable for middle-income families.

Taxpayers' Bill of Rights (House Bill 1147) — Creates the office of ombudsman in the Department of Revenue and establishes a Taxpayers' Advisory Council to give the public a stronger voice.

'Pump Boys and Dinettes' brings country goodness to Goldenrod

By Frank Hunter
Staff writer

It's "eat and get gas" time at the Goldenrod Showboat with the new attraction "Pump Boys And Dinettes," a country music celebration that played on Broadway and received a Tony Award nomination in 1982.

The locally produced version began an unlimited engagement May 24 at the Goldenrod Showboat on the Mississippi riverfront.

As an architectural rendering of a squallid small-town life revolving around a truck stop, it is hard to fault the scenery designed by Jay Roeger and built by Prentiss Construction Co. It is a downright triumph, creating an aura of grease, grime and gasoline and the scent of catfish frying on the front burner. There is an old pay phone hitched to the wall, an indecent rusting gas pump reminiscent of the 1940s, signs advertising "Lube jobs, tires," "hot biscuits," and "Yes, we have girls!"

The four pump boys hired to fill 'er up, check the oil and scrape the bugs off windshields, sing and play guitar, banjo and piano backup for a pair of warbling waitresses. All six plunge through 20 tunes in what amounts to a country music concert in two acts.

The individual foot-stomping ballads and comic songs are lashed together in a script originally conceived and written by John Foley, Mark Hardwick, Debra Monk, Cass Morgan, John Schimmel and Jim Wann. The writing skills of the artists are not much stronger than a shred of used dental floss.

But the Goldenrod performers are capable enough to overcome the rube dialogue and cornball gags preceding each number. The dinettes tap dance and pick up salad forks while pounding out the percussion on tambourines and skillets and an Old Judge coffee can.

The pump boys, hoosiers right down to their grimy work boots and oily shop towels, are played by Mike Buck, Tom Clear, Kip Loui and Jon Glen-non Rosen.

The Goldenrod presents "Pump Boys And Dinettes" at 8 p.m. Tuesday through Friday. Dinner is served at 7 p.m. in the "Captain's Dining Room." There are two shows at 6:30 and 9 p.m. Saturday; dinner is served at 5:30 and 8 p.m. Sunday matinees are scheduled for 3 p.m. with lunch served at 1:30 p.m.

'Friday at Flags' should reel 'em in with activities for the whole family

On June 16 through 18, Six Flags Over Mid-America presents a weekend full of special events for the entire family.

Beginning Friday, June 16, Six Flags kicks off its annual "Friday at the Flags" series with special performances by pop artists Dino and Sa-Fire. Designed for teens, "Friday at the Flags" runs each Friday, June 16 through Aug. 25. The series offers half-price admission after 4 p.m. with the redemption of a Coke can, extended park hours until midnight, a teen dance club, and special concerts on select Friday nights.

The first of the series presents Dino and Sa-Fire in concert at 8 p.m. in the Old Glory Amphitheater. Dino's debut album "24/7," featuring the hit single "24/7," was released in February. Currently ranked in Billboard Music Chart's Top 10, Sa-Fire's latest single, "Thinking of You," is from the album Sa-Fire.

Then on Saturday and Sunday, June 17 and 18, "Something's Fishy" at the Flags. Guests purchasing any two full-price admission tickets at the main gate and presenting a coupon from Grandpa's will receive a Zebco fishing package, complete with rod and reel.

From 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. on both days, children ages 11 and under will enjoy fishing in a 12-by-40-foot tank stocked with trout furnished by Mountain Trout Fishing.

Concerts and events are included in the one-price admission to Six Flags. Park operating hours for the weekend are as follows: Friday, June 16, 10 a.m. to midnight; Saturday, June 17, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.; and Sunday, June 18, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

'Dead Poets Society' good for whole family

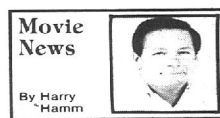

It was a brave stab at change that brought Robin Williams to the role of John Keating in the film, "Dead Poets Society" (***). Following his savvy performance in "Good Morning Vietnam," the leap from raucous disc jockey to ethereal English professor was a spring of faith for Williams. The result is a very happy landing.

"Dead Poets Society" takes place in 1959 at Welton Academy, an exclusive boys preparatory school nestled in the picturesque, wooded hills of Vermont. Keating, a Welton graduate, returns to his alma mater as an English professor.

Things haven't changed much. Welton still is a pricey, tradition-bound haven for young men whose parents measure a school's value by the amount of tuition charged. Keating still is irrepressible and as Welton's hierarchy is about to find out, irresponsible.

He begins his first class by taking the students out into a hallway where they peer into a trophy case and stare at the pictures of students from the turn-of-the-century, listening for whispered voices from the past who will encourage them to live for the moment, or as Keating entreats them in Latin, "Carpe Diem," lads. "Seize the Day."

Keating encourages the students to undertake other daring tasks, like tearing out the entire introductory section of a text-book on poetry that Keating feels is inappropriate. Then there is the re-birth of the Dead Poets Society, a nocturnal assemblage of poetry- and music-loving students that Keating founded when he was a student at Welton.

"Dead Poets Society" is one of those rare films that can be enjoyed by teen-agers and their parents. Director Peter Weir ("Witness," "Gallipoli") has forged a winner, measuring the tension and dramatics like the complicated meters of Keating's favorite poetry. John Seale's photography is unforgettable.

Rated PG. Running time: 124 minutes. Rating based on four stars.

Triplets beat Alton again

ALTON — The Triplets pulled themselves up to the .500 mark again Wednesday with a 6-4 win over Alton (3-5) at Gordon Moore Park.

Granite City (2-2) scored three runs in the first and three more in the fourth as Kevin Wozniak picked up the win with 3½ innings of relief help from Jamie Needham.

"They just couldn't hit all of Kevin's junk pitches," said Triplets manager Ralph Burnett. "They were just beating it into the ground. Alton (whom the Triplets beat 10-4 on Saturday) only had four hits."

Needham got Brian Mossman to pop out in the seventh with the tying runs on base as the Triplets improved to 2-2.

Kory Burton and Kurt Hodges had RBI hits in the first and Rich Schordan drew a walk for another RBI against losing pitcher Gary Hubbard. Ken Mallock tripled home two more runs in the fourth. Granite City had nine hits, with Chris Barbling and Burton getting two each.

Tim Black will pitch at home against Cahokia tonight at 6 p.m. Mark Begando will face Troy tomorrow at home.

Miners win on Greco's dramatic HR

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — Every kid in his backyard dreams of this: He's batting in the bottom of the ninth with his team trailing by one run. There's a man on base with two outs and a 3-2 count.

Tom Greco found himself in that spot Wednesday at Varsity Field. And guess what? He did what every kid dreams of doing in that situation. Greco measured a fast ball from Edwardsville Trader leftfielder Scott Harper and unloaded a screaming line drive which hooked around the foul pole in left field for a dramatic two-run homer and a 6-5 win for the Miners.

The win put Granite City (4-2) a game ahead of the Traders in the Metro East Night League standings and kept the Miners a game out of first place.

"I just wanted to hit the ball hard," said Greco, who now has eight home runs this season. "I was just concentrating when he got two strikes on me. And I didn't know if it was going to stay far or not."

It might have gone foul, but the 1979 Granite City North graduate simply hit it too hard. It was over the fence before it had time to hook. Jamie Hogan had flared a two-out single to right to give Greco a chance. Harper had relieved in the fifth inning and was throwing very well. But he made his last pitch a little too good to a big-time hitter. Greco had been 0 for 4 on the night before his last swing.

'I had full confidence in Tommy. He's been doing it for us all year... This is the kind of game everybody enjoys.'

—Daren DePew

"We had the right guy up in the right situation, didn't we?" said Miners player-coach Daren DePew, who was on deck when Greco won it. "I would have liked to have been up there in that situation, but I had full confidence in Tommy. He's been doing it for us all year."

"I told you he was like that," said team organizer Woody Hoad. "Tommy's one of the best hitters I've ever seen."

Greco's heroics made a winner out of Scott LeVault, who pitched the last two innings in relief of Daren Hendrickson. LeVault came in with a 4-3 lead, but served up a solo home run to Steve Blumner in the eighth. With two outs in the ninth, LeVault walked pinch-hitter Ralph Jackson before Mark Little lined one to right field. John Moad turned the wrong way, then straightened himself out only to miss the ball, which rolled to the fence for a three-base error as Jackson scored what looked to be the winning run.

"John's not a right fielder," said DePew. "I don't like doing that to him. But I have to get his bat and (Bob) Sirtak's bat in the lineup."

"It would have been a shame to lose the game on an error," said Woody Moad. Hendrickson allowed six hits in seven innings. He pitched around a leadoff triple by Blumner in the third, but an error by second baseman Tim Wargo and a hit by Mark Ringering in the fourth gave the Traders a 1-0 lead.

The Miners scored three in the fifth, although they could have had more. Shane Cole, Doug Rains, Tim Hogan and Wargo had consecutive hits off Edwardsville starter Todd Keaton. Harper relieved at that point and Little made a great stop on Greco's smash up the middle for a force play, although Hogan scored to make it 3-1. Greco was then out stealing on a questionable call and DePew was robbed on a shoestring catch in right field.

Ringering tied the game with a two-run homer in the sixth.

"Darin is throwing better," said DePew. "He doesn't have any pain in his arm anymore, but he's still a little concerned about hurting it again. But he's working hard. Ringering is just a good hitter. You have to be on top of your game to get him out. And Scott three well, too. He got his breaking ball over, which is very important."

The Miners took a 4-3 lead in the seventh thanks to Wargo, who had three hits. He doubled and was at third with two outs with DePew at the plate. As Trader catcher Bob Radosevich lobbed the ball back to Harper, Wargo sped home and just beat

For a while, it looked like Wargo had provided the dramatics to win. But Greco provided an even better ending.

"This is the kind of game everybody enjoys," said DePew. "Even the players who don't play have to like this."

"I like the way the team is coming together. We're not giving away too many runs. We're not scoring as many runs as we can. But I think we will."

Same old tune

Edwardsville hammers Granite City again

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

EDWARDSVILLE — It was a little cooler and there were a few more mosquitoes in attendance, but Tuesday night wasn't a whole lot different from Memorial Day.

The proceedings were all too familiar for the Triplets as they were hammered 14-2 by Edwardsville Post 199 in District 22 action at Hoppe Park. It was a 12-run defeat similar to that suffered by the Warrior high school team to Edwardsville in the regional championship game two weeks ago. Edwardsville is now 2-0 while the Triplets fell to 1-2 heading into Wednesday's game at Alton.

Mark Begando got his chance to pitch against Edwardsville,

Partney's home run wins for Optimists

By Mike Kelly
Correspondent

GRANITE CITY — The Optimists let a 3-0 lead slip away Tuesday, but Dan Partney took care of things in a hurry. Partney hit a one-out solo home run in the bottom of the eighth as Granite City topped Greenville 4-3 in Junior Legion action at Varsity Field. It was his second round-tripper of the night and fourth in the last three games. Partney is beginning to make multiple home run games a habit as he belted a pair in one inning against Highland last Saturday.

"I was kind of surprised they pitched to him in the last inning," Granite City co-coach Carl Benson said. "I don't think I would have given him the opportunity to beat me in that situation. He's hitting the ball real well right now, and with authority."

"He came in after his third at-bat and told me that they were just throwing him junk. I told him to just lay back and wait for the pitch, because he's got very quick hands."

Partney's coach Dick Kraft was impressed with Partney's power and maturity at the plate. "He smacked a fastball at least 380 feet his first time up, so we decided to give him nothing but curve balls the rest of the game."

The win improves Granite City's record to 4-1 overall, 3-1 in league play. Greenville is 2-4.

Partney, a soft-spoken youngster, isn't letting his early power display disrupt his approach at the plate.

"I had five home runs in high school."

Park programs outstanding

If you don't think Granite City is a good sports town, consider this:

This summer's baseball and softball program of the Granite City Park District is made up of 191 teams in 29 leagues. By conservative estimate, I would take that to mean there are probably 2,000 youth and adults playing ball in our town.

For a town with a population of around 30,000, that's not too bad — particularly when you consider how many youngsters are involved in soccer and other activities.

You can drive around town during the evenings and the weekends for the next two months, and you don't see a single game being played somewhere you're not looking. They will be at any one of the eight ballgame fields in the city.

The softball leagues have been at it since late April. The youth baseball and "ponytail" softball leagues began in May, most them May 13 right after the annual Baseball Parade. They will keep right on rolling through early August, when league playoffs are held in each league.

Each team will play 12 games in league competition. The top four teams will advance to the playoffs. The first-place team will play the fourth-place team while the second-place team plays the third-place team in semifinal action. The winners of those two games meet for the overall league championship.

The latest championship game is scheduled for Aug. 14. In all, there are nine men's softball leagues (57 teams), six TOM PRICE was right for Edwardsville Post 199 on Tuesday, striking out nine in a 14-2 win over the Triplets.

Benefit game Friday for Milt Wiley

By Jim Woodcock
Staff writer

A benefit dance last Friday for Milt Wiley turned out to be something closer to a Belleville West class reunion.

More than 400 friends and classmates attended the dance in Belleville to help raise funds for Wiley, the former Belleville West basketball star who is battling cancer.

Benefit coordinator Rusty Lisch, a former quarterback with Notre Dame, the St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago Bears, said the event was a success beyond what he envisioned. He'd like that to be true Friday when the fund-raising drive continues with its main event in the Belleville East gymnasium.

That's where a basketball benefit double-header will be held featuring Indiana Pacers coach Dick Versace, former Washington Redskins Dave Butz, and future NBA center Gary Leonard.

Admission is a minimum $3 donation at the door. All proceeds will help Wiley defray his staggering medical expenses. The first game at 7 p.m., will spotlight some of the area's top basketball coaches, celebrities

Joe May...helping organize and oldtimers. The second game, at 9:45 p.m., will include recent high school graduates, local legislators and area coaches who still consider themselves gym rats.

A dunking contest and three-point shooting showdown will be featured between games. Versace, Butz and Leonard will be available for autographs and conversation throughout the evening.

"I don't know if I should be surprised that there is so much goodness in people," said Lisch.

Wiley's close friend and teammate at West, "I just haven't had to spend one dime of my money to help with the dance and basketball games. Everyone wants to be of help to Milt."

Wiley is Belleville West's all-time scorer. He graduated with Lisch from West in 1970 and went to Michigan State before ending his collegiate career at St. Louis University.

WTVS broadcaster Joe May, who is helping Lisch with the event, says Wiley may have been one of the best ever to come from the Metro-East area.

"He was outstanding," May said. "He did everything for a team that may have been the most underrated team around. He played games at Michigan State and SLU that I'll never forget."

Lisch said the coaches will include Joe Wiley (Milt's brother), Dave Shahan, Roger Mueller and Jerry Turner.

Fans who cannot attend the game but still want to make a donation may write a check to the Milt Wiley Basketball Fund and mail it to the Magna Bank of Belleville, 19 Public Square, Belleville, 62222.

Saturday is KSHE, Granny's Rocker night at speedway

Saturday will be Granny's Rocker-KSHE Night at Tri-City Speedway.

There will be a special appearance by KSHE personality Smash along with a 30-foot tall inflated balloon in the likeness of the KSHE mascot known as the KSHE Pig. KSHE items, known as "KSHE Stuff," will also be given away, along with records, tapes and other attendance prizes.

Anyone presenting a Tri-City Speedway ticket stub from the night's races at either of the Grannys' Rocker Night Clubs (Alton and Edwardsville) will be admitted without a cover charge. This is the start of a new agreement between Tri-City promoter Dennis Hicks and the management of Grannys' Rocker. The policy will be in effect for all the Saturday night programs at Tri-City through the end of the racing season.

Tri-City management is looking to work with many other area businesses on various promotional activities. Any business interested should call Hicks at 377-7153.

THE KSHE PIG, a 30-foot inflated balloon likeness of the station's mascot, will be part of Grannys' Rocker-KSHE Night at Tri-City Speedway on Saturday.

Fairmount puts horse up for grabs

By Jim Woodcock
Staff writer

COLLINSVILLE — By most accounts, thoroughbred-in-training Stev's Bobbie isn't likely to end up pulling plows in the horseradish fields near Fairmount Park in Collinsville. Folks in the know at Fairmount predict a promising racing career for the 2-year-old colt, who will probably make his debut here in August or September. Somewhat more uncertain is who will own Stev's Bobbie when his opening day arrives.

Stev's Bobbie will be given away to a fan at Fairmount Park during the July 4 afternoon holiday racing card. Already four finalists have a chance at winning the colt, and three or four more will be chosen in the meantime for the July 4 sweepstakes.

The winner will get Stev's Bobbie and his stabling, training, veterinary care, horseshoeing and jockey fees through the end of the Fairmount Park thoroughbred season, which ends Nov. 26. Of course, the winner also gets the earnings gathered by Stev's Bobbie.

"The winner will be licensed and listed in our programs as the owner," said Fairmount PR director Mary Ozanic. "Or they can sell the horse. We outbid someone for him in Chicago and they're coming down here to make the winner an offer for the horse."

"It's an idea that's been around for a couple of years. They've done it at Canterbury Downs in Minnesota, and the first year they did it there the horse won $50,000. The winner ended up keeping the horse. And at Remington Downs in Oklahoma the horse had earnings."

Ozanic said Canterbury and Remington purchase one season of services (such as training) for the winner's horse. At Fairmount, the services are being donated by the Illinois Thoroughbred Breeders and Owners Foundation and the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association.

"Everyone is really pulling together to make this a neat promotion," Ozanic said. "Everyone likes the horse."

The pedigree for Stev's Bobbie was selected by Nancy Vanier, owner and breeder of Kentucky Derby starter and Illinois-bred thoroughbred Western Playboy. Ozanic said examinations were made by trainers from Fairmount and Chicago, plus Michael Friedrich, president of the ITBOF.

Stev's Bobbie has an impressive background. His sire, Royal Roberto, earned $331,648 in his career and was purchased for $2.2 million, the highest-priced horse of racing age ever sold. His dam, Stevmiss, has banked career earnings in excess of $65,000.

"Stev's Bobbie is by a runner out of a runner," Friedrich said. "Currently, Stev's Bobbie is a prize package worth about $25,000," Ozanic said. He was purchased May 14 at Chicago's Hawthorne Park for $13,000.

Two men from St. Louis, a man from New Baden and Mark Patrick of Granite City have already been drawn as finalists. On the next three Saturdays and on July 4 a new name will be drawn after Stev's Bobbie takes a stroll for fans before the fifth race.

On July 4, the finalists will gather in the winner's circle and draw post positions for the next race. The finalist holding the number of the race's winning horse gets Stev's Bobbie, who is being trained at Fairmount by Raul Martinez.

"You can come out on Saturday nights and see the horse for yourself. It's a pretty good-looking horse," Ozanic said. "People must be interested in him. We have thousands of entry forms."

Registration for the contest is free at the track, and fans may enter as often as they wish. Forms are available at the Forms.

Standridge comes from behind to win

By Joe Senter
Correspondent

GRANITE CITY — Rick Standridge overcame Ron Fisher on the final lap to win the U.M.P. late model stock car feature at Tri-City Speedway on Saturday. Fisher slowed on the last lap when his engine went sour momentarily. That was all Standridge, of Springfield, needed. He started from the third spot and kept up the pressure on Fisher the whole race along with Bert Cheatham.

Fisher led almost the whole way and ended up just a few feet behind Standridge. Cheatham was third followed by Jim Durbin, Bobby Dietz and Rick Malloy. Fisher was on his way to a perfect night after winning his heat race and the trophy dash. Dietz and Durbin followed Fisher in the trophy dash and in their heat. Cheatham took the other heat followed by Standridge and Malloy.

Scott Ford escaped serious injury in the first heat when he lost control of his car in the third turn on the half mile track, jumped the guardrail, flipped end over end and made a barrel roll before coming to rest on the car's top. Thanks to the safety of his car, the quick work of the safety crew and Ashley's Towing Co. of Granite City, Ford got out and was only shaken up, although the car was badly bent. John Seets took the sportsman's car feature and his heat race. Seets led the whole distance and edged out his brother Tom. Don Carter won third. Rick Beyer won the trophy dash and the other heat race.

Jim Lafferty won the street stock feature, unseating Dave Jones, who had won the last six.

Lafferty thus won a $100 bounty placed on Jones, who was knocked out of competition on the third lap in a three-car pileup. Maury Bargetz was second and Rick Carter third.

The track has announced a special outlaw sprint car summer sizzler, with a $5,000-to-win 40-lap main event on the half mile track, for July 19. Also on hand will be the IMCA modifieds.

P.J. Riley drafted by Houston Astros

P.J. Riley was drafted by the Houston Astros in the 15th round of the major league free agent draft this week.

Riley, a junior outfielder at SIUE, has played some with the Granite City Miners amateur baseball team. But he was expected to sign with the Astros on Tuesday and report to their Class A team in Auburn, N.Y., for the season opener on June 16. Riley becomes the 25th player to jump from the Cougars to a pro baseball contract and was SIUE's highest pick in 11 years.

Riley, from Edwardsville, was selected as SIUE's "Outstanding Male Athlete" for 1988-89. He hit .403 this year and had a .346 career average. He ranks among career leaders in almost every offensive category at SIUE.

Christina Boklund of Sweden was named SIUE's "Outstanding Female Athlete" for this year. Boklund was a member of four NCAA Division II national tennis championship teams and won the Division II singles title this year.

Maria Parra of Granite City was named the most valuable player of the women's soccer team at SIUE during the Athletic Awards Banquet held recently.

Cubs hold trout camp at Sauget Field June 27

LeVault receives letter from Aurora

Scott LeVault, a 1987 graduate of Granite City High School, received his second-year varsity award from Aurora University baseball coach Jim Schmidt at the recent Spartan Spring Sports Award Banquet in Aurora.

LeVault, a 5-11, 210-pound sophomore, was 7-3 with a 4.50 ERA and 19 strikeouts for the Spartans this year.

Aurora ended its 1989 season with a 27-11 overall record and won the always rugged Northern Illinois Intercollegiate Conference.

ence with an 8-0 record. It marked the sixth consecutive time that Aurora has won the NIIC title.

The Spartans also were selected to compete in the 1989 NCAA Division III Midwest Regional, which was held at Otterbein College in Westerville, Ohio, on May 24-27. Unfortunately, success did not follow the Spartans east as AU bowed out of the tournament with consecutive losses to regional powers Illinois Wesleyan and College of Wooster.

LeVault, a psychology major, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marty LeVault of Granite City. LeVault is also a member of AU's football team that finished its 1988 season with a 7-2 record.

Gobble again on ISU AD honor roll

Greg Gobble, a senior accounting major from Granite City, was one of a record 125 Illinois State University student-athletes to qualify for the Athletic Director's Honor Roll for the Spring 1989 semester.

Gobble, a 1985 graduate of Granite City High School, was a member of the Redbird soccer team, from which 15 players made the AD Honor Roll. The 125 members eclipsed by one the previous record set in the Fall 1988 semester at ISU.

That represents 31 percent of the 406 student-athletes in the spring semester study. All ISU athletes combined for the highest semester (2.62) and cumulative (2.54) grade point average since the study began in 1963. The soccer team, coached by Tim Carter, had the highest team GPA of any men's team at ISU (2.96).

Only 11.6 percent of the student-athletes had below a 2.00 GPA, a record low which is a decline of 25 percent from a year ago. For the third straight semester, the percentage of student-athletes on academic probation is lower than the percentage of the total ISU student population on probation.

The results are a direct reflection on the efforts of our coaches working in cooperation with assistant athletic director Donna Taylor and her academic advisement team to see that we maintain a strong academic emphasis along with athletic excellence," said athletic director Ron Wellman.

two-run homer and a short-lived 2-0 Triplets lead.

"Throwing a changeup to the No. 8 hitter doesn't fool him as much as it would someone further up in the lineup," said Edwardsville manager Ken Schaeke. "Tom put it in the wrong place and the guy had a good swing at it."

Schardian followed Matt Schnefke's hit with the home run, but the Triplets had only one more hit, a single in the third by Chris Bartling, who was picked off.

Meanwhile, Edwardsville got a cheap run in the bottom of the second. Tim Funkhouser got a solid hit with two outs, but Tom Denton's pop fly to right was lost in the lights by Keith Matlock. It dropped close to the line and Funkhouser, running hard all the way, scored easily. "We don't have a lot of power in this lineup," said Schaeke. "We only had two legitimate extra base hits tonight. We got some breaks on some balls that flared in down the line."

The third inning was worse. Mark Little singled and Begando hit Pat Correia on an 0-2 pitch. After a wild pitch, Adam Lynn was walked intentionally to fill the bases. Then Chris Booher blooped another flare down the right-field line to score two runs. Funkhouser's sacrifice fly made it 4-2 before Tom Denton reached on an infield hit. Begando was slow covering first. J.J. Seerba got another infield hit to drive in a run, although Schardian made a diving stop to save another run.

But Little broke it open with a triple into the right-field corner for three runs and an 8-2 lead. "It's just one of those games when you're out of it in one inning," said Hennrich. "What can you say after that?" Price was overpowering. "I told Ken before the game we had a lefthander going and he said he did, too," said Triplets manager Ralph Burnett. "I knew they would have Price ready for us. But he said he had seen enough of Daria Hendrickson over the past three years."

"We saw Hendrickson three times last year," Schaeke said of the District 22 MVP for 1988. "It makes a difference without him."

It sure does. Edwardsville scored 14 earned runs Tuesday, which is twice as many as Hendrickson allowed all season in 63 innings of work last summer.

Tom Senecyn had control problems and was hit for five more runs in the fifth before Brian Harshany ended the long night by striking out four in 1½ innings, although he was touched for a run. Brian Farmer pitched the final inning for Edwardsville and added two strikeouts, making it a total of 11 for Edwardsville pitching on the night.

Post 199 is a solid favorite in the North Division. Schaeke will have Price, Lynn and Dave Jones heading up the pitching staff and won't lose any players as he did last year when most of his best went to the Soviet Union for two weeks.

"We have a good opportunity this year," said Schaeke, whose team is already in the Fifth Division tournament because it is hosting. "We have the pitching if we can score enough runs."

They've scored 25 in the first two games after beating Cahokia 11-1 on Monday.

The Triplets even lost off the field Tuesday. Dennis Laboratory was ejected because he was spotted warming up Tim Black on the sidelines without a catcher's mask. He was wearing shin guards, but the absence of a mask was enough to chase him despite Burnett's objections. Laboratory also had to sit out Wednesday's game in Alton.

"I was only wearing the shin guards because I broke my knee cap last year and I'm always supposed to wear them when I play catch," Laboratory said. "He said I bent down like I was warming up a pitcher, but I had to reach down to catch a throw." Oh, well. Just part of a looong night in Edwardsville.

school, but I always make it a point to relax at the plate," he said. "I went to a summer camp in Carbondale last year and they taught me to keep my hands back while not squeezing the bat. Keeping my hands loose has really helped me a lot, because it gives me bat speed."

The Optimists got out of the gate quickly as Partney's two-run blast in the first and an RBI triple by Ryan Reeves in the second gave them a quick 3-0 lead.

After that early explosion, the Granite City bats went silent against losing pitcher Toby Bauer. In one pitch, Bauer retired 13 in a row between the second and sixth innings.

In the meantime, Greenville chopped away at the lead. They scored once in the fourth and tied the game with a pair of runs in the fifth. Tim Stoecklin had the big blow in the inning with a run-scoring triple. Greenville tried to squeeze the go-ahead run home with Bauer at the plate. But winning pitcher Mike Nordstrom fielded the ball cleanly and cut Stoecklin down at the plate. "I thought the runner beat the throw sliding in under the catcher, but the umpire had the better view and he called him out," Kraft said.

Benson, on the other hand, was pleased to see his team not get frustrated after being shut down for much of the middle part of the game.

"We got out of the gate real fast, but a steady diet of breaking pitches shut us down," he said. "The key was we didn't get discouraged and we didn't try to force things by chasing bad pitches." Nordstrom, after surviving a shaky fifth, settled down and went the distance for his first win of the year. Nordstrom struck out four, walked three and scattered four hits in his first start of the season.

"Mike's our No. 2 pitcher behind Dave Boley," Benson said. "A real plus for Mike was being able to play five games at the varsity level during the high school season. It helped him tremendously because he got the opportunity to pitch against better hitters."

"Mike did a good job keeping his fast ball down while mixing in the curve," Partney said. "In the fifth he got some of his pitches up, but Mike made the right adjustments the rest of the way."

Benson realizes that although the Optimists are young, the success they've experienced in high school gives the players a lot of confidence.

"They've had some success at the high school level," he said. "They're known as a good hitting team with good defensive abilities. They don't beat themselves, and that's a big plus at this level. The only thing that concerned me coming into the season was the pitching, but they're coming around a great well."

women's softball leagues (37 teams), three church softball leagues (20 teams), two high school softball leagues (12 teams), seven boys' baseball leagues (51 teams) and two ponytail softball leagues (14 teams).

Trying to coordinate what must be more than 1,000 games over a 3½-month period is quite a task. But the park district has the right man in charge. Babe Champion knows a thing or two about baseball. He played for the 1948 Granite City High School baseball team which won the state championship. Champion was later a coach and scout and retired this year from the Granite City school district. He has gone into the Granite City Sports Hall of Fame twice, once on his own in 1987 as a charter member and again this year as a member of that 1948 Warrior team.

Champion was hired as the park district's director of recreation in early May and has dug into the work. Among the many fine programs of the park district, the baseball and softball programs have to be the biggest tasks. There are many diamonds that need to be kept in shape. There are umpires to hire. And for the youth leagues, there are parents to keep happy. That's the toughest job of all.

Still, it gets done every year, thanks to tireless contributions from the park district, the umpires, the sponsors, the parents and the players. And the youth leagues even take the opportunity to honor some of those who went before them. Leagues are named after Salty Parker (Alton II), Dal Maxwell (Bantam I), Owen Friend (Bantam II), Joe Loftus (Midget I), Jim Holland (Midget II) and Joe Horner (Juvenile).

With all the high school sports out of the way, the will begin publishing league standings this week. We will run scores as they are made available, as well as any game highlights. It's the least we can do for a tremendous program.

The highlight of last week's action in the Granite City Park District baseball program was the performance of Chad Dooley. He struck out all 15 batters in the first five innings of an 11-1 win for the Rookies over the Butch Peterson Sluggers in the Jim Holland League (Diamond 11) on June 8 at Diamond 2 of Wilson Park. Dooley also hit a home run and had a perfect game through five innings.		General Baptist Church 2A		2nd Baptist Church 2A
